

Pininfarina

Pininfarina's Sintesi concept for a coupe-styled four-door car shows how to produce a vehicle with a bulky fuel cell powertrain and still offer the legroom normally found in premium cars. The concept has an extremely long wheelbase at 2990mm. In the Sintesi, Pininfarina has placed an electric motor into each of the wheels, while four fuel cell stacks are positioned on the vehicle frame near the wheels. A central tunnel houses a biofuel tank and a reformer that transforms the biofuel into hydrogen.

Sintesi